Monday November 18, cont’d
Session II 1:30-3:30
Maoz Kahana (Tel Aviv University)
“A Tale of a Heartless Chicken: The Scientific Revolution through Halachic Lens”
David Katz (Johns Hopkins University)
“The 18th Century Responsa Writer as a Phenomenon”

Session III 4:00-6:00
Yitzhak Y. Melamed (Johns Hopkins University)
“Panthieism and Sabbateanism? The Hakham Tzvi and David Nietto on God and Nature”
Elisheva Carlebach (Columbia University)
“Rabbis in the Records: Pinkassim from Altona in the Late Eighteenth Century”

Tuesday, November 19, 2013
Session IV 9:30-11:30
Tamara Morsel-Eisenberg (University of Pennsylvania)
“Mitpachat Sefarim: Print, Authority, and Early Modern Criticism”
Yaacob Dweck (Princeton University)
“Jacob Sasportas and Jacob Emden”

Session V 11:45-12:45
Jacob Schacter (Yeshiva University)
“Rabbi Yacob Emden’s Megilat Sefer: “Autobiography” and Self-Revelation”
Lunch

Session VI 2:00-4:00
Michael Miller (Central European University, Budapest)
“There is none that does good, no, not one: The Role of Moravia in the Emden-Eybeschutz Controversy”
Yechiel Goldhaber (Bar-Ilan University)
“Rabbi Jacob Emden and the Unification of the Altona-Hamburg-Wandsbek Communities”

Session VII 4:00-6:00
Michah Gottlieb (New York University)
“Jacob Emden, the Haskalah and the Reform of Jewish Education”
Pawel Maciejk (Hebrew University of Jerusalem)
“Coitus interruptus in Va-Avo ha-Yami el ha-Ayyin”