Provisional Title of Honors Thesis:

With this form, please also turn in an initial research plan for your honors thesis. The 3-5 page plan should include:

- The topic of the research and its importance
- The primary research question(s)
- The expected methods of analysis and importance
- A timeline for completion that indicates the work to be done each semester as well as during summer and winter breaks.

This is only an initial plan. You may change it during the fall semester. Note that failure to meet deadlines and adequately complete tasks may result in a loss of eligibility for honors.

To receive honors, you must maintain a minimum 3.7 GPA in the major and complete the year-long Senior Thesis Seminar: East Asian Studies (AS.310.431 and AS.310.432)

If you expect that your research will involve human subjects, it must be reviewed by the Homewood Institutional Review Board. This review must be completed before you begin human subjects research, so you should submit your HIRB application well in advance. For more information, see the HIRB website and contact John Block (410-516-6580, jblock1@jhu.edu).

Your initial research should be developed in the consultation with your thesis advisor, who should approve it before signing this form.
