TRAVELING CASES:

SCHNITZLER BETWEEN EAST AND WEST

Lecture by Andrew Webber, Professor of Modern German and Comparative Culture, and Fellow of Churchill College, Cambridge University.

Professor Webber’s research and teaching interests cover various aspects of modern German and comparative culture, including literature, film, psychoanalysis, and gender issues. His books include a study of the European Avant-garde (Polity Press, 2004), and a cultural topography of Berlin in the Twentieth Century (Cambridge University Press, 2008). He has also translated one of the volumes of the new Penguin edition of Freud and is leading a major project for a digital edition of works by the Austrian Modernist, Arthur Schnitzler.

WHEN: April 16th @ 5:15 p.m.

WHERE: Gilman 479

SPONSORS
The Alexander Grass Humanities Institute, Comparative Thought & Literature, and German & Romance Languages & Literatures, and the English Department.