WHAT
3MT is an academic communication competition. Doctoral students have three minutes – and a single, static PowerPoint slide – to present compelling and engaging talks on their dissertation topic. 3MT empowers students to consolidate their ideas and concisely explain their work to the public and scholars in other fields.

Improve your professional communication skills and learn how to succinctly describe and present your work – invaluable skills for job interviews, grant applications, and career success. 3MT also provides an outstanding forum to meet your peers, university leadership, and develop long-lasting collaborations.
